

Geolinguual Studies (GLS) A New Research Direction Workshop

at the Julius-Maximilians-Universität (JMU) Würzburg

When: 26 to 28 September 23 / conference opening: 26 September, 2 pm

Where: ZPD Building / Emil-Hilb-Weg 23, Hubland Nord, 97074 Würzburg

We will explore new approaches to urban spaces regarding the interrelation between physical space and human behaviour, the shaping of identities, and the perception of space. Based on a range of data (e. g. from social media) we will focus on topics such as migration, mobility, COVID, and sensory experiences in the city, with the aim to foster the exchange of ideas between different disciplines.

Plenaries:

Philipp Rode: Global urbanisation and cities in the 2020s

Peter Zeile: People-centric urban data

Ankhi Mukherjee: Open, closed, and interrupted city

Participation is free. Register and find more information under: www.phil.uni-wuerzburg.de/gls

Hosted by the GLS Research and Teaching Unit Department of English Linguistics in collaboration with Remote Sensing geolinguualstudies@uni-wuerzburg.de Am Hubland, 97074 Würzburg

